Investigations of Allegations of Cheating on the FBI's Domestic Investigations and Operations Guide (DOIG) Exam Oct 31 2019 In Dec. 2008, the FBI implemented a new DIOG, which described the procedures its employees must follow when conducting domestic investigations. The FBI implemented comprehensive training on the DIOG for approx. 20,000 FBI agents, analysts, and technicians. These employees were required to complete 16.5 hours of live classroom-style training. Moreover, after taking this training, the employees had to take and pass a written, computerized 51-question exam concerning the DIOG. Because of the concerns that there may have been widespread assistance given during the exam, in January 2010 this investigation was begun related to the DIOG exam. This is a print on demand edition of an important, hard-to-find report.

Computerized Adaptive Testing Nov 12 2020 Modern computer technology has opened up several new possibilities for optimizing the administration of educational and psychological tests. In computer adaptive testing (CAT), tests are automatically tailored to the proficiency level of the individual examinees. Currently, nearly all large-scale testing programs in the western world are already adaptive or in the process of becoming so. Written by active CAT researchers from Europe and North America, the chapters offer a comprehensive introduction to the latest developments in the theory and practice of CAT. The book can be used both as a basic reference on the state of the art in CAT and a valuable resource in graduate courses on test theory. The theoretical chapters in this book cover such topics as item selection and ability estimation, item pool development and maintenance, item calibration and model fit, and testlet-based adaptive testing. The practical chapters describe the operational aspects of existing large-scale CAT programs.
